ICA Board appoints new President

The Board of the Insurance Council of Australia (ICA) today appointed Mr Richard Enthoven as President of the Insurance Council and Chairman of the Board.

The two-year appointment of Mr Enthoven, Chief Executive Officer, The Hollard Insurance Company, was made during a Board meeting held in Sydney. He was previously Deputy President, and served as Acting President last month following the departure of Mr Anthony Day from Suncorp.

Mr Gary Dransfield, Chief Executive Officer Insurance, Suncorp, has joined the Board and has been appointed Deputy President of the Insurance Council.

ICA CEO Rob Whelan said Mr Enthoven's stewardship of the ICA came at a pivotal time for the general insurance industry.

"Richard is a personable and highly respected business leader. His perspective on how the insurance industry should respond to the challenges posed by the rapidly changing social, economic and political landscape will be invaluable," Mr Whelan said.

"On behalf of the Board and the industry I thank Anthony Day for his contribution to the ICA Board during a testing year."

Mr Enthoven said: "I am honoured to accept the role of ICA President and Chairman during a very exciting time of both opportunity and challenge within our industry.

"The ICA has a proud tradition of ethically and expertly promoting its members' roles in providing insurance protection and security to the community. I'm passionate in seeing this role continue in consultation with key stakeholders."
