ICA welcomes announcement of new National Party Leader and Deputy Prime Minister

The Insurance Council of Australia (ICA) welcomes the election of Michael McCormack to Leader of the National Party and as Deputy Prime Minister of Australia.

ICA CEO Rob Whelan said: “The Insurance Council and the industry have had a strong relationship with Mr McCormack in his previous role as Minister for Small Business. We are pleased that such a strong advocate for small enterprises is now in a key leadership role.

“The ICA looks forward to working with Mr McCormack and trusts he will continue to support regional and rural Australians, especially with regard to investing in nation-building infrastructure through disaster mitigation and community resilience measures, and regulatory and taxation reform.”
